Event Details:	Equal opportunity cell along with biomedical engineering department organized a webinar on “Becoming a Successful Communicator and a Skilled Professional” on 29.01.2021 to overcome barriers among the students for better communication. The resource person explained the communication process, the importance of effective communication at work and the effects of poor communication. In addition to that, the resource person also discussed with participants about how to improve their listening skills and effective questioning strategies. She ignited the students’ interest to know about possible barriers to communication such as semantic barriers, frame of reference, organizational and psychological barriers and methods to overcome them. The effects of attitudes, perception and cultures on the interpretation of non-verbal messages are also pointed out by the resource person to understand conflict and to manage it. “Effective communication is at the core of workplace efficiency, interpersonal success, and, ultimately, an improved bottom line”- Ms. Sonaliya added. Ms. Sonaliya Subramanian said that the skills gained will help the students to lead meaningful conversations, to improve professional and personal lives. Ms. Sonaliya Subramanian asked the participants to speak out about their opinions whenever the chance come to them instead of be silent. “The role of tone and intonation in communication are usually called as music of language”, said by Ms. Sonaliya. Finally, the session ended with an interactive Q&A by the participants. About 70 across the departments attended the session. Dr. P. Sreelatha, Ms. R. Kavitha and team of Equal Opportunity cell organized this event.
